

Simple 3x3 Grid Layout (HTML/CSS)

Question 5

You are building a responsive photo gallery section for a website using CSS Grid. The main objective is to arrange nine photo thumbnails into a 3×3 grid structure and ensure one specific element spans across the entire bottom row for a call-to-action banner.

Objectives:

- Add a title CSS Grid Layout Demo to the HTML file.
- Define a main container with the class .grid-container that uses CSS Grid.
- Fill logic to create a grid with 3 equal columns (each taking an equal fraction of space) and 3 rows of auto-height.
- Place the item with the class .span-item so that it starts at grid column 1 and spans to the end of the grid (column 4), effectively covering the entire bottom row.
- Set a gap of 15px between all grid items.

Constraints:

- Do not change the HTML structure or class names (.grid-container, .grid-item, .span-item).
- Use only the modern CSS Grid properties (grid-template-columns, grid-row, etc.).
- Ensure all grid items have a minimum height of 100px for visibility.
